A BETTER COMMUTE

The 7 subway station at 34th Street and Hudson Boulevard is the first New York City subway station to open in the last 25 years. Situated directly adjacent to Fifty Five Hudson Yards, the station is built to connect 40,000 commuters an hour to Grand Central Station and all of the major subway lines it crosses en route.

7 LINE: THE IDEAL CONNECTOR

HUDSON YARDS COMMUTE TIME COMPARISON

The commute to Hudson Yards from key residential neighborhoods is shorter than to 30 Rockefeller Plaza.